

I would like to know why people with unlisted phone numbers are protected by having their numbers blocked from caller i.d. listings? I understand that they want to be protected from unwanted phone calls. But on the other hand once they choose to call someone i feel that they should lose that protection. My wife received an obscene phone call at 12:52 a.m. on Sept.18. The reason that i know the exact time is that my caller i.d. showed it to me. But that is all it showed me because the pervert called from an unlisted phone number. See my point? I feel powerless because he is shielded even if he chooses to initiate the call.
